授業の目標 (Course Objectives)

This course provides students with opportunity to perform and reflect on their leadership in Hawaii. Students will self-check their leadership, know their potential, and build an action plan for improvement.

授業の内容 (Course Contents)

Students will perform their leadership and reflect on its performance in activities such as fieldwork, service learning, and group work in overseas countries. Students will participate in a program at Hawaii University, Hawaii. The program will offer, through lectures, off-campus fieldwork, and service learning in the local community, opportunities to perform leadership in environment with diversity. Each reflective session will include reviewing contents of activities, sharing leadership experienced/observed in activities, and thinking how to behave next time. In the prep session, each student will be expected to set individual goals to be achieved in the overseas programs, while students as a team will discuss and make a preparation plan. This course requires them, in the follow-up session to reflect on their leadership, update their leadership models(持論), and make up an improvement plan.
